

Shakespear's Sister, Moonchild birds can fly and fish can swim but on this planet where do i fit in? i could be in trouble or just imagining sometimes i feel like an alien i make them laugh i make them stare but mr. jones said "hey young girl don't feel sorry for yourself the world's out there" and everyone's waiting to see what you're gonna do and if you come down to earth we'll fall in love with you the papers all want to know exactly who you are coz everyone wants to love you, moonchild there's a moonchild in everyone, oh little moonchild you're not the only one!

i looked at the world from another star that's when i discovered who you really are and now i'm hungry for the taste and life is just too good to waste so take off into outer space i'll see you there!

you're not the only one!
