

Shane Barnard, Glory

Should You give me one more breath to curse Your name oh God?
Why allow me one more thought to delight in me?
Do I have the right to walk, a step upon Your grace?
While I call upon myself, should You give me life?

I fix my eyes on the Author of my life
May I realize that Your glory far outweighs this simple life.
Oh may I, may I open up my eyes
Lord open up my eyes.

Now I breathe oh Lord may I be filtered through Your wisdom.
I receive another thought, oh Spirit guard my mind.
Holy Your righteous pace, direct my clumsy footstep.
Now I live, oh Lord I yield. Please lead my life!

I fix my eyes on the Author of my life
May I realize that Your glory far outweighs this simple life.
Oh may I, may I open up my eyes
Lord open up my eyes.

Your name is so alive.
Your delight is my hearts cry.
And as You mold my heart to Yours,
Oh Lord be glorified!
