Shane Hebert, Let It Go

I see a stranger with a smile Man, it's been awhile

Everybody has a secret When will I have mine?

I see my picture in a frame It's on the lawn and I am framed

Everybody has a secret but It's not on my mind Everybody tells the story Like it was hard to find

Let it go Understand that this is real and don't ever let it go

My feelings are not set in stone Seems my feelings aren't my own I am so misled, I am so composed but I am home I think that you should live again Without ever thinking that you lived There's something in the way you cry but there's something in the way

I know you're feeling angry I know you're feeling scared but anytime you feel lonely You can call on me