

Shannon Noll, Letter To You

Staring out the window, here I go again Been down the road a hundred times, Still don't know what's round the bend Tryin to figure up from down, Sometimes I dont know where to turn I know one thing's for certain, one thing I've had to learn

It was you, I had to work it out Now you know it's true, I can't do without

Chorus
I sent my heart in a letter to you
But the pages are torn in two
I lost my head staring at your photograpgh Cos it's hard to write a song for you

Standing at a crossroads, looking back this way again
Ive met a thousand people but I'm back where I began Living in a daydream where no one ever gets me down Your face beyond description, your voice the sweetest sound

Now I'm sure what I want you to see But it's hard to find the words to bring you closer to me

Chorus
I sent my heart in a letter to you
But the pages are torn in two
I lost my head staring at a photograph
Cos it's hard to write a song for you Impossible to to say to you

Gone are the rainy days Without you I'd be lost and I'd just drift away
Come so far just to be with you Now I'm not letting go no matter what you do

It was you, I had to work it out
Now you know I'ts true, I can't do

Chorus
I sent my heart in a letter to you
But the pages are torn in two
I lost my head staring at your photograph
Cos it's hard to write a song for you

I'll say it in a letter it makes me feel much better
But the pages, the pages, the pages are torn in two

Now I'm staring at your picture, it makes me love you deeper And it's so hard to write a song for you To tell you how I feel for you
