

Sharon Phillips, A Heartbreak Away

Night spend in the dark
Wondering where it all went wrong
Not sure who you are
No one to belong to
Try to live a life
But you're so unalive
If you could only make it through another day
It's just a heartbreak away from another love
Soon you'll release all the ghosts of what was
You've been damaged to the core, afraid to feel once more
But you never know love just may be a heartbreak away
Sometimes all it takes is time for memories to fade
Sooner that remains, is proof that you have made it
Through the wrestles nights back into the light
Oh I promise you it's worth the wait
It's just a heartbreak away from another love
Soon you'll release all the ghosts of what was
You've been damaged to the core, afraid to feel once more
But you never know love just may be a heartbreak away
So hold on the best is yet to be Close your eyes, imagine, just believe
That just as one door closes another opens wide
That's the beauty of goodbye
It's just a heartbreak away from another love
Soon you'll release all the ghosts of what was
You've been damaged to the core, afraid to feel once more
But you never know love just may be a heartbreak away