

Shea Seger, Last Time

Take some sense
And I'll stumble home
It's been awhile since I've been alone
I'll break some bread
And I'll pour some wine
The conversation will be all mine

Chorus

But if I wake up with you
It will be the last time
And if I still adore you
It will be the last time
And if I stumble to you
It will be the last time

Bits and pieces of the night before
Candle wax lying on the floor
Scraps of paper you're not meant to find
A broken clock still telling time

Chorus

But if I wake up with you
It will be the last time
And if I still adore you
It will be the last time
And if I stumble to you
It will be the last time

There must be something I don't recognize
There's something here I don't realize
A red sun on my windowpane
And next to me I see you again

Chorus

But if I wake up with you
It will be the last time
And if I still adore you
It will be the last time
And if I stumble to you
It will be the last time
