

Sheila Nicholls, Elevator

I am full and choosing to be full i'm on a boat, i'm in a lake, i'm with the water i see the trees i'm with the sun i see the moon i touch the sky and i'm with you
i'm with you

and how long would it take if we were trapped in an elevator after the earthquake five stories under debris you and me in the garden indefinitely after 10 hours were thinking about food we lost our voices from shouting, and screaming and crying and singing and being really cruel my tummy rumbles but there's no guitar so we have sex instead and we go so far and we do that for days til we're knee deep in cum dehydrated , exhausted, insane aquarium i'm with you... i am with you

five stories under debris

and i remember the hunger from the last time, still hear i remember the hunger

this could go one of two ways hollywood rescue or bodies and bouquets found after 3 months smiling and bloated the colors were great the smells they were quoted and i'm with you ... i am with you
i'm with you ...

so i'm am full i'm choosing to be full
