

Shelly Archer, Lovebird

Hey lovebird
I will sing you goodbye songs
'til you fly away
And hey lovebird
I won't tell you that it's wrong
We were never here to stay

And you're the only one I knew in all my years
All your deepest wishes and your biggest fears
But i'll never understand just how it feels to be

The one who's leaving
Feels to be the one who's leaving
Feels to be the one who's leaving
One who's leaving me

Hey lover
I have been here all along
And my life before you came has been
A lonely desert road
And hey lover
When you leave i will go on
I'll be changing with the seasons
I'll be moving to the songs

And you're the only one who knows me through my bones
With all the belly aches and washed out river stones
And how we always said we'll go down where it flows

But you're the one who's leaving
Seems like you're the one who's leaving
Seems like you're the one who's leaving
Leaving me alone

And you're the only one who knows me through my bones
With all the belly aches and washed out river stones
And how we always said we'll go down where it flows

But you're the one who's leaving
Feels like you're the one who's leaving
Feels like you're the one who's leaving
Going, going, gone