

Shepard Vonda, Maryland

(Written by Vonda Shepard)

I've been thinking

I've been thinking, I've been thinking too much

I just want to live now for a little while

And cast my dreams to the wind

Don't wanna wonder

Don't wanna wonder what it's all about

I'm just working for a living singing with my friends

As I cast my dreams to the wind

Maryland, I'm coming home

Never worry about what I did wrong

And that I'll never be what my daddy wanted me to be

And I'll never see what my mama's dreams were

But I will sing

La la la la la la la la

I wanna fly

I wanna fly down the highway to my home away from home

This funky funky club down on Fairfax Avenue to see you

And I'll never give up

Because what is there to give up anyway

I'm just working for a living, working for my pay

In Maryland it's raining somewhere in some cafe

Maryland, I'm coming home

Never worry about what I did wrong

And that I'll never be what my daddy wanted me to be

And I'll never see what my mama's dreams were

But I will sing

La la la la la la la la
