

Shiny Toy Guns, I Owe You A Love Song

I owe you a love song
So much I could say
I owe you a love song
Words that I can't say

Remember the days
Of sleepless summer nights
That took us away
A perfect place, a different time

Back when nothing was wrong
Now we're each sold separately
Our summers are gone
Grey skies are all I see

These broken days won't last forever
You know I'll put us back together

I owe you a love song
So much I could say
I owe you a love song
Words that I can't say

Waiting alone
In the world you made for me
Makes staying in love
Just a world of make believe

Where I'm playing along
And your words aren't clear to me
Like hearing a song
Without a melody

These broken days won't last forever
You know I'll put us back together

I owe you a love song
So much I could say
I owe you a love song
Words that I can't say

We climb, we crawl
Tear down the wall
That we've torn down before

It's not too late
This song will say
What I never say

I owe you a love song
So much I could say
I owe you a love song
Words that I can't say

I owe you a love song
So much I could say
I owe you a love song
Words that I can't say
