

Sick Of Change, The Introduction

It all starts now...

These are opinions

These are beliefs

These are deepest thoughts

Can you read them?

Can you feel them?

For our darkness and injustice, we bring you light

We've inflicted our hearts, and opened our scab healed wounds

We've extracted the very things we have so long kept hidden

Never realizing pain can bring such freedom

No longer a prisoner in our own minds

Still very ashamed, only when exposing them

We fall like the stars

And live like the sun

Impetance, forgiveness

We are blameworthy so hold us to our wrongs

But we are humans and cannot hold our lies against us

Let our thoughts concede

Let the music play

Let our word touch lives

And these lives touch the world

Let the music play...