Signs Of Betrayal, Beneath The Skin

If I could show you emotions I've poured into love I could fill up the seas and the infinite above But now I stand here hatred and heartache my sin From the scars I have gained That I would not ever wish on anyone I can't bleed All these things done to me They're trapped in this skin And they're wrapped around my veins I can't bleed All these things done to me They never will fade Like a cold dark winter's day If I could take back the innocence I've lost in my life I would bury it deep so that it would never die But now I stand here blackened and tainted like storm clouds That tear through the sky With the tear like rain drops falling all around I can't bleed All these things done to me They're trapped in this skin And they're wrapped around my veins I can't bleed All these things done to me They never will fade Like a cold dark winter's day If these scars would heal I would cut this skin Just to see me bleed I can't bleed All these things done to me They're trapped in this skin And they're wrapped around my veins I can't bleed All these things done to me They never will fade Like a cold dark winter's day Like a cold dark winter's day.
