

Silent Winter, By The Waves

Loveless world - dissolution
Words unspoken - disregarded
Withered dreams - revelations
Scars unhealing - echoed despair
Fallen from grace
I was summoned to the fire
The flames beckoned me
Through the ash I walked
No more fear, no more lies
Silhouette to the sky
The rain soothed me
My soul leaves
Condemned shell it flees
Through howling winds
My spirit did fly
The clash of thunder
My new pulse
I swept through the forests
My breath raised the leaves
I stood in the streams
Felt the rush of water
It flowed through me
New blood found
By the waves
I flew the tides
To distant shores
Where sad soles lay