Silent Winter, Eternal Rest

Hide myself away Wait etérnal rest I have been swept away Heaven called to me The sun has died on me The holy will not cry My pale and frozen face So weak and lonely Like a fallen angel Your black wings embraced me And held me in my moment of shame I remembered when You would save my sole My faith died in you Where is my God now? In this silence In death I wait Sorrow never ending Haunting forevermore