

Silver, Skin

I know you told me not to ask where you have been
I know you told me not to try
To understand the way you live your life at night
But don't you see you make me cry

So now I've left you
I know it broke your heart
But I prefer to be alone
I hope you'll feel the pain I've always felt with you
I know I'll make it on my own

I touch your skin
I smell the sin
your eyes are lying
I touch your skin
I smell the sin
My love for you is dying

I know you told me not to ask where you have been
I know you told me not to try
To understand the way you lived your life at night
But don't you see
You make me cry

I touch your skin
I smell the sin
your eyes are lying
I touch your skin
I smell the sin
My love for you is dying

I touch your skin
I smell the sin
your eyes are lying
I touch your skin
I smell the sin
My love for you is dying