

Simon Says, Sever

Everyday's another day
This wall I build, it drowns the noise out.
I watch your mouth, but never hear a word.
A liar and a lunatic, a bitter end.
Relationship.
It makes me take a look at what it's worth,
And I've found nothing.
You're days are over.
Time has won.
Now it all makes sence.
Picture of a mother's dream,
A perfect son.
A family.
A trophy for your lowered self esteem.
Product of a glory whore.
I heal myself and find a savior.
Stare at your creation turn his back.
Mother I hate you!
You're days are over.
Time has won.
Now it all makes sence.
Today I sever all my ties,
To your existence.
Allergic reaction,
To your dishonesty.
You're days are over.
Time has won.
Now it all makes sense.
Today I sever all my ties,
To your existence,
And I'm finally living.
Drown you out.
I shut you out of this world.
Innocence.
I wish I had a mother.
Look into my eyes.
You can't stand your reflection.
Sever me.
I cut you from my conscience.
Allergic reaction,
To your dishonesty.
You're days are over.
Time has won.
Now it all makes sence.
Today I sever all my ties,
To your existence.
