

Sirenia, Manic Aeon

Stranger...come inside
Read my epitaph, deranged am I?
Estranged one...haunting me
Be my lover, I prithee

Prophecies of death outside take the moonshine for a ride Haunting faces and staring eyes bring my mania into life

Little stranger come inside Lay to rest what you still writhe
We made a life of it somehow Seems like we've lost it now

See you dance away
all this bitter pain
See you move in ways
beyond our days
In devotion I linger
And with drained veins
I falter again

See you pass away in another day
Hear you call my name yon another veil
In devotion I've lingered
In this world I've belonged for far too long

Strangers haunt me down Stalking faces all around This strange voice at my door cede my reason like before

Propechies of death inside Cede your words they cut like knives Somber wind that sweeps within This manic aeon is bound to be Little stranger stand me by If you prevail, then so can I Lay to rest the hurt you stand Only through death we'll mend