

Sky Eats Airplane, World Between Us

Hold still until I come back home, 100 days makes my heart sink like stone.

Let the noise drown all your thoughts,
turn up the radio,
pretend that you're fine when you're not.
Don't you know I've been waiting so long?
Don't you know I've been wrong?

Try to break before the smoke,
keep, keep looking forward.
Just don't look at the wreckage,
you might be concerned.

I look for replacements to fill at this space states away.
Just give me a reason to come back home.
I feel so alone
as the distance grows.

I can tell this time,
as I slowly lose all hope,
this will never work for us.

Don't you know I've been waiting so long?
Don't you know I've been wrong?
Don't you know I've been waiting so long?
So long...

You said that we'd make this last,
but maybe we were wrong.

I can't stop the thought that this road will tear us apart.

I know that this road
is going to be the bend before the break.
I know that this emptiness is going to fade,
I've given up on counting days.

I think its best to forget I exist.
And I'll keep wishing to one day,
to one day,
to one day be by your side.

I'm sick like a sailor,
I've been lost at sea.
I see your reflection,
its haunting me, in my dreams.
Waves continue to break but I'll weather the storm.
Just give me a reason to come back home, to come back home.