

Sky Tells All, World Wide Sing A Long

Well I heard good things fall apart so better things can fall together
If there was one thing I could say to you, to make you say forever
Well I'd say it till my lungs gave out, and I'd teach the world this song
In hopes to make you hear it everyday, just to prove you wrong
So we've both got dreams that don't mean a thing
It's time to get it together
When best friends are meant to fall in love
But I hope you know your what I'm dreaming of
So take this kiss for everything its worth,
It's not a blessings it's a curse
I think I made this worse
Lets run away together,
We'll make a break for it
These lights could be our guide, to the story of our life
You can't stop thinking about what's right
For just a single second the stars don't seem so bright
On this cold black night
I said I told you once
And then I told you twice
It's time to get it together
When best friends are meant to fall in love
But I hope you know your what I'm dreaming of
So take this kiss for everything its worth,
It's not a blessings it's a curse
I think I made this worse
I remember calling out your name
Just so you would notice me
Had planned the perfect memory
Of what we would become
I remember calling out your name
Just so you would notice me
Had planned the perfect memory
Of what we would become
When best friends are meant to fall in love
But I hope you know your what I'm dreaming of
So take this kiss for everything its worth,
It's not a blessings it's a curse
I think I made this worse
I remember calling out your name
Just so you would notice me
Had planned the perfect memory
Of what we would become
I remember calling out your name
Just so you would notice me
Had planned the perfect memory
Of what we would become