Slapshot, Them Aren't

Don't need any more hate I hate enough already I don't need any more grief I got all I can stand Don't need any more homeless I've given all I can I can't wait to shed all my loneliness I've felt alone mt entire life but I'm not I'm already dead Don't need any more friends I've been hurt to many time before I don't need religion The church is more corrupt than me I don't need television but I still watch it endlessly I can't deal with people Cause they see right through me But I'm not I'm already dead
