Sleater-Kinney, Ironclad

You went down in the very first round sitting ringside in a tiny town Knock out, knock out First round, first round

When you call you will call the loudest When you fall you will fall the hardest

This could be our very last stand The Monitor and the Merrimac too bad, too bad You're ironclad, ironclad

When you call you will call the loudest When you fall you will fall the hardest

Who do you love, who do you love? What would you kill, what would you kill, what would you kill? to make a heart stand still, heart stand still, heart stand still? What would you pay, what would you pay? to make the hate go away, hate go away, hate go away?

When you call you will call the loudest When you fall you will fall the hardest

Why battle-cry, dry your eyes no one can hear you Once iron made heart or spade no one can steal you
