Sloan, Raspberry

Through the music There's a dancing girl She can be broken In your hands

She knows you're looking at her But that's what scares her You're in the space that she commands

If she still likes you You might get a call She'll ask you why You stood and stared

You will be hearing from her But that should scare you If she still likes you be prepared

Pardon me for calling
But I'm just checking in
You don't know who I am
But I know where you've been

You sit and tap your fingers When you should tap your phone Tap all your resources Until she leaves you alone She leaves you alone

This girl's got nothing on you But that's what bugs you 'Cause you still let her get to you

Pardon me for calling
But I'm just checking in
You don't know who I am
But I know where you've been
You sit and tap your fingers
When you should tap your phone
Tap all your resources
Until she leaves you alone
She leaves you alone
