Slow Coming Day, A Mere Accident

Shutting my eyes I can see what is right in front of me.

A twisting kaleidoscope in my head of all the things we left unsaid. If I could make the world go away.

If I could make it all disappear.

distant memories relapse.

Encased in mirrored glass.
leaves are falling.
time for a change.
repetitions are rearranged.

If I could make the world go away.

If i could make it all disappear...make it all disappear.

If I could make these nightmares disappear.

Now it's time to fade away