

Slow Gherkin, Reminder

I think I've fallen and landed on my head
That which was clear to me is now faded with my consciousness
You say my head is swelled enough
Get up and jump from higher up
My head split open
Contents have been exposed
In comes complexity once absent when my mind was closed
You say my head is swelled enough
Get up and jump from higher up
I've got a reminder
I've got a reminder
I've got a reminder now
I've got a reminder
I've got a reminder
I've got a reminder now
And now I've taken
Taken to falling down
The pain ebbs and it's clear
my niche is straight down on the ground
You say my head is swelled enough
Get up and jump from higher up
On the ground my happiness is double
Twice as happy on the ground
I get up now fall down
I've got a reminder
I've got a reminder
I've got a reminder now
I've got a reminder
I've got a reminder
I've got a reminder now
We should be conscious when we fall