

Slurpymundae, I Found You There

I found you there
I found you there

When I wake up in the sun
I can't find the words to feel like anyone
Stretched out deep within the grass (yeah)
I can't recall anything good about the past

But I found you there
I found you there

When I argue with myself to no end
I won't let this storybook have a fairy tale ending
Blast of black across the walls
Now the room is closing in as I applaud

But I said, I found you there
I found you there

Oh, up the hillside, coming,
Falling back then up again
I found you there
I found you
