

Smash The Statues, The Stream Of World Decay

As I walk through the isles of World press photo
50 years of conflict smack right in my face
Not a single year without pointless bloodshed have passed since then

Still we refuse to run against the stream!

Some things are better left alone
You'll never know what's eating you
To live your life with fear suppressed
Is what they want you to endure

You can stay put and ignore every signal
There is to see despite their efforts to veil it
You could jump up against the wall
(The wall) that's placed between two worlds the wall that hides the army of darkness on the other side
You could jump up against the wall

Try to hold me back, try to push me down
But suit yourself , I'm going in anyway
I'll turn my life against the stream of world decay

You all see it
You all hear it
You just don't seem to care

You suit yourself, but i'll remain oppressed in opposition
