

Smooosh, About The Picture

Sometimes in the midst of my worries
I feel the need to run to myself
And then I see that you're all right

Sometime in the midst of my worries
I feel the need
But it's painful to me to look

I look at the back window
And watch you
I see you disappear
And then I know

And then I see you disappear

Sometimes in the midst of my worries
I feel the need
But it's impossible for me to look
I look at the back window
And watch the gravel spill from the tires

And then I know that you are all right

And I know

Sometime in the midst of my worries I feel the need
To walk to yourself
And then I see you disappear

Sometimes in the midst of my worries
I feel the need
But it's impossible to me to look
I look at the back window
And watch you get smaller & smaller
And then I know

And then I know that you're all right

And then I want to go away and see
Well if you're never gonna let me feel alright
And if you're never gonna let me go away
And if you never walk away
And if I know that you're all right
Now that I would not listen
To myself I know
It's all about the picture
