Snuff, The Other Half Of You

All born on the wind Come morning another wind will blow Could get to grips with everything the world has got to offer & see the other half of you

Held so deep within Cross hatched the guard is restless You could live & amp; you could die & amp; never get to know Never get to see the half that aint on show

Build a wall of silence