

So They Say, Antidote For Irony

The antidote for irony's held safe far away from you
I heard you say just this one time
So I guess I'll, just sit down and see for myself
I'll go where you take me
And I feel the lies cover your eyes
And I'll wait 'til you say please
You said this counts for so much more

□

Wait 'til tonight
You'll see exactly what I've seen and can't believe
All I ever wanted was
To find a way to kill the pain

Put down, put down the loaded gun
Or point it straight between my eyes
'Cause you can't fight fair tonight
With words that cut like knives

(And I want) To see you do the things you never do
(And I want) To feel your skin but now the ceiling spins and the room gets cold
I'll go where you take me
You feel the lies cover their eyes
And I'll wait 'til you say please
You said this counts for so much more

Wait 'til tonight
You'll see exactly what I've seen and can't believe
All I ever wanted was
To find a way to kill the pain

Put down, put down the loaded gun
Or point it straight between my eyes
'Cause you can't fight fair tonight
With words that cut like knives

Put down, put down the loaded gun
Or point it straight between my eyes
'Cause you can't fight fair tonight
With words that cut like knives

The day will come and it kills me
That the thing that I gave you
Will take you away from here
I need a chance to catch my breath
I know the only thing that can take away our fear

Put down, put down the loaded gun
Or point it straight between my eyes

Put down, put down the loaded gun
Or point it straight between my eyes
'Cause you can't fight fair tonight
With words that cut like knives

Put down, put down the loaded gun
Or point it straight between my eyes
'Cause you can't fight fair tonight
With words that cut like knives