Soilwork, Rejection Role

I'm the result of an Ageless redemption A body with a Heartless convention A face with a smile that's Been shut down for years Facing the facts of My generation...cause I'm a sinner, a winner My blood is getting thinner I might as well get another life Cause I've been there I know what's been said And I know what's been done Don't you tell me I'm the only one, cause I...

I will be there looking for something Coming straight out of nothing Just killing time Facing those walls so black, so vile I really am waiting for nothing Coming straight out of something Just killing time Facing those walls so black, so vile

Now put your trust
In a solid machine
Filled with words that
Hve never been seen
A plague to insatiable
Souls left to die
Charged with mankind's
Raw energy
I rumble, I stumble
My memory starts to crumble
I can't refuse what's Haunting my dreams
Have I stumbled?
On my way to a created perfection
I penetrate the gates of rejection

I will be there looking for something Coming straight out of nothing Just killing time Facing those walls so black, so vile I really am waiting for nothing Coming straight out of something Just killing time Facing those walls so black, so vile

There's no determination Echoes of a failed gallery There's yet extermination Inside us all, screaming

-Solo-

I will be there looking for something I really am waiting for nothing Coming straight out of something Just killing time Facing those walls so black, so vile I will be there looking for something

Coming straight out of nothing Just killing time Facing those walls so black, so vile