

Something Corporate, Down

Let's get drunk, you can drive us to the harbor
Wish upon a star, but do you know what stars are?
Balls of fire burning up the black space
Falling from the landscape
Exploding in the Face of God

Let's get crazy, talk about our big plans
Places that you're going, places that I haven't been Build my walls up, concrete castle
Keep this kingdom free of hassles

Yeah, yeah, yeah, yeah

But I hear sound echo in the emptiness all around
What you can't change is loneliness
Look at what you've found, I'm falling down

Taste the saline rolling down your cheekbone
Tell me that you're alone, tell me on the telephone
Feel your heart, it breaks within your chest now
Try to get some rest now
Sleep's not coming easy for a while, child
Child, yeah

But I hear sound echo in the emptiness all around
What you can't change is loneliness
Look at what you've found, I'm falling down

Down, down, down, down

But I hear sound echo in the emptiness all around
What you can't change is loneliness
Look at what you've found, I'm falling down
Look at what you've found, I'm falling down
