

Sometimes Never, Who I Am

I'd never have been this tall
If I hadn't stood upon your shoulders
But now I've grown wings of my own
And I must step off

Don't think I don't appreciate
The time you spent and the place you put me
No matter how high I'll get to fly
I always know who I am

Always in your son
Always in your blood

Now I must head off
Alone in the great unknown
I'll try to shine so bright
You can see me no matter where you are

Always in your son
Always in your blood

Here I sit upon my cloud
Hoping everyone can see
Down in the crowd, I hope your crowd
Of who I am
