

Son Of A Plumber, Something Happened Today

is it a dream or is the day still dawning in this part of the world?

is it one of those moods where you feel so selfish
in this part of the world?

but hey
something happened today i wish i could explain the strange sunshine in the rain the rush i got
i heard you call my name it will never sound the same again tried to be good any small town person knows it never ends

since i was young
've been a stranger to myself i know it never ends

but hey
something happened today
i wish i could explain
the strange sunshine through the rain
the rush i got
i heard you call my name
things will never be the same again