

SONICFLOOD, Your Love Comes Rishing In

I feel like i've gone astray.just like i've run away from the grip of Your love it's not that i want to do it's not like I tried to do it that way i found there's no distance to far that could change who you are that could turn you away

Chorus-

your love comes rushing in pooring over me I know when I come running your there for me there's no where that i could ever lose my way i know im captive in your arms in the grip of your grace when does it fill like its starting to give in is when your love.... your love comes rushing in...

every day your mercy's new and there's nothing i can do to earn your love i believe the way you say trusting you and now your grace is more than enough theres no mountain so high no river so wide that will can keep me from you

your love comes rushing in pooring over me
I know when I come running your there for me
there's no where that i could ever lose my way
i know im captive in your arms in the grip of
your grace when does it fill like its starting to give
in is when your love.... your love comes rushing in...

your love comes rushing in pooring over me
I know when I come running your there for me
there's no where that i could ever lose my way
i know im captive in your arms in the grip of
your grace when does it fill like its starting to give
in is when your love.... your love comes rushing in...

your love comes rushing in...