

Sonny James, There's Always Another Day

There's always another day to hope you'll come home

There's always another night to cry all alone

The only way I go on hurting this way

Is when I tell myself there's always another day

There's always another day and I'm waitin' here

Just hoping that you'll come back and dry all my tears

I know I must believe you'll come back to stay

And so I tell myself there's always another day

[choir]

I know I must believe you'll come back to stay

And so I tell mysels there's always another day there's always another day
