

Sophia, Sometimes

white hallway
I lock the door
behold the woman
that does not know
she hides her face and says why are you laughing at me I reach out
but she moves away
and I can hear the children laughing

but can't you see
what you're doing to me
oh, sometimes, I don't think I'll ever sleep
but can't you see
what you're doing to me
oh, sometimes

white hallway
I lock the door
behold the woman
that does not know

but can't you see
what you're doing to me
oh, sometimes, I don't think I'll ever sleep
oh can't you see
what you're doing to me
oh, sometimes