Sophie B. Hawkins, The One You Have Not Seer

I want to walk beside you Nowhere that I have ever been And of the dreams inside you I am the one you have not seen You make mé feel a school girl Restless to take your point of view Into my mystery world Finding that one is more than two I feel abused By my own mind I can't refuse An offer to make love to you How come your words affect me I have not wanted to be bound And yet I may be set free Before the meaning was the sound In your refrain I hear the chords of love in vain How can I help but call your name From dusk 'til dawn I'm haunted By your demon song Don't make me play alone too long
