Sophie B. Hawkins, You Make Me High

You make me cry I don't even know why I open so wide to fit you Sometimes I wanna leave you cause I know you can't be true I wanna believe you Sometimes I almost do But you will never change And I don't wanna say goodbye cause when I look in your eyes You make me high And I don't wanna be just a speck on your horizon So when you land this time I hope you'll let me know Is this something that could grow Or am I still alone Cause when I'm with you I feel That I've finally found a home There may be no windows or a door a ceiling or a floor but you make me high
