

Sophie Ellis-Bextor, Breaking the Circle

Do you want to know what I think?
Do you wanna hear what's in my head?
It's too early to go to bed
Do you want to hear a secret?
I think there may be a day when the sun doesn't rise
The sun doesn't rise
I can see a new horizon in your eyes
Here we go into the light of the great unknown
Soaring up like satellites in the Twilight Zone
Breaking the circle
Crashing through all of the edges of destiny
Come with me and we can chase what the end might be
Breaking the circle
And when the morning comes, will everything feel the same?
Can you sit a little closer?
There's a magic in the nighttime air
In the nighttime air
I can see a new horizon in your eyes
Here we go into the light of the great unknown
Soaring up like satellites in the Twilight Zone (here we go)
Breaking the circle (here we go)
Crashing through all of the edges of destiny
Come with me and we can chase what the end might be (end might be)
Breaking the circle (come with me)
Oh, when the morning comes, will everything feel the same? (Here we go)
(Come with me)
Don't want to live like days gone by
(Come with me)
It's time to rip it up and let it die
Here we go (here we go) into the light of the great unknown (here we go)
Soaring up like satellites in the Twilight Zone (here we go)
Breaking the circle (here we go)
Crashing through all of the edges of destiny (come with me)
Come with me (come with me) and we can chase what the end might be (come with me)
Breaking the circle (come with me)
And when the morning comes, will everything feel the same?