

Sophie Zelmani, A Thousand Times

I woke up so sad one morning
And there were reasons for that bad morning Something told me
you're not ready for this change I got up stepped into the shower, and I thought:
it will be gone
about an hour or so But something told me this feeling comes from deep inside
And suddenly ran teardrops,
just like the water
And I lost, I lost the fight
And it felt like someone had died away from me
And myself died a thousand times
Have I lost my sence and strength Are my eyes just full of you Why come the pictures reminding me of love Suddenly ran teardrops,
just like the water
And I lost, I lost the fight
And it felt like someone
had died away from me
And myself died a thousand times