

Soraya, If I Lose You

If I lose you
I will be a ghost of someone I used to be floating in and out of darkness numbed to silence by the loss

Without you life would fade my days and endless haze
and all I would crave
is to hold you once again

If I lose you
Ill pray for rain to come and drown the smoldering pain that would burn with every breath with every sigh of emptiness

my days and endless haze
and all I would crave
is to hold you once again

I dont think I could survive to feel this much and be denied Youve leave give me strenght to still believe

and all I would crave
is to see you once again

I would pray for just one day without you I would face please, please ... stay
