

Soraya, Reflection

Beauty's only skin deep they say it fades away with time
I promise I will search for you and find you deep inside
Flowers are so radiant when they are in bloom
But seasons betray them stealing their perfume

I hear you when the wind blows
I see you in a summer sun
I feel you with my beating heart
You are my reflection
In your eyes I am beautiful
Imperfections were never such a charm

Stones are often hidden, buried out of sight
On them we can build up straight to the sky
When we are together its unabashed and tender
Funny how love feels when its made of sweet surrender

I hear you when the wind blows
I see you in a summer sun
I feel you with my beating heart
You are my reflection
In your eyes I am beautiful
Imperfections were never such a charm

Falling into silence it unravels in my mind
Thoughts appear like flowing clouds moving without time
Rivers will flow straight into the sea
If you believe in that then you believe in me.

I hear you when the wind blows
I see you in a summer sun
I feel you with my beating heart
You are my reflection
In your eyes I am beautiful
Imperfections were never such a charm