

Soraya, Ruins in my mind

Saw the ruins of a civilization fallen amidst the rubble i stood and haunted how you and i once built a fortress tears shed to commemorate the existence of a love that was so great how you and i once thought we'd never hesitate And the stones get rounded by the storms so do my memories change as time rolls on
And as i walk through i see remnants of you that have survived the harshness of time and as i walk through i see remnants of you all these these ruins in my mind these ruins in my mind Through the corridors i folloed the beam of light and amidst the shadows how you and i once knew what mattered In the ruins i felt a history of what once was never again will be how you and i once loved with such urgency
And the stones get rounded by the storms
so do my memories change as time rolls on
and as i walk through i see remnants of you that have
survived the harshness of time
and as i walk through i see remnants of you all
these these ruins in my mind