

Soraya, Tu Y Yo

Tu y Yo, three words I thought I'd always say you and I, I thought we'd never fade away I revealed my innocence, I put my trust in you you vowed never to leave, gave your word that you'd be true but I find myself sitting here alone trying to remember who I was before our love all the memories, all the future dreams it's never been more clear, things aren't always what they seem

Tu y yo

You and I was all I ever knew everything I had got its breath from you you used to whisper I was the one, that with me your life had begun everything you questioned was gone while all the time you had your eye on how to plan this harsh good-bye start again with somebody new

Tu y yo

I know that you played me for a fool I fear what I gave is gone for good I hope I can still believe in spite of you

Tu y yo