

South, By The Time You Catch Your Heart (Reprise)

By the drug that's in your eye
By the line that's on your mind
These things are ours it's only time
It all depends which side you find

He might come unstuck
He might write us off
But write us off a thousand times
I write a song about a time

For such an open mind
There's a fear so strong inside
By the time you catch your heart
Your good intentions fall apart

He might come unstuck
He might write us off
But write us off a thousand times
I write a song about a time

Each night remains the early part
In terms of love that falls apart
And by the time you catch your heart
By the love right from the start

Each night remains the early part
In terms of love that falls apart
And by the time you catch your heart
By the love right from the start

By the time you catch your heart