

Spark, Flower

He picks a yellow flower on a Sunday afternoon
The love he had for her only he and God knew
The smile she gave him said all the unspoken words
With a glance in her eyes he saw a love so pure

(chorus)

Just as a boy can love a girl
And just as flowers can brighten your world
There's someone who died to show His love
The love you seek comes from above

He picks a white flower on a Friday afternoon

He never thought it would come so soon
She looks at him as she walks down the aisle
With every step she says "I love you" with her smile

He picks a yellow flower on a Sunday afternoon
And placed it in her hands just like he used to do
Time has changed the way their outside eyes see
But the love they feel inside is all they'll ever need

Just as a boy and girl can fall in love
So can you with the One above