

Spine Caroline's, True Star

When I look at the sky it all gets so heavy and the reason why is an endless journey and sometimes it just seems so far away.

Then I look in your eye and I find place that seems as vast as outer-space and I find myself with one thing left to say...

That you are my only True Star
shine with all your might,
guide me through this lonely night.
And I want, whatever you want
and after all we've said and we've done
baby I think it's time you came with me.

Sometimes when I wake up I feel so heavy and getting off the floor can be such a journey until I remember why we ran away.

Then I pretend to see your face and I strike a picture as to conversation steal your heart, but you'll find me in your doorway...

That you are, my only True Star
shine with all your might,
guide me through this lonely night.
And I want, whatever you want
and after all we've said and we've done
baby I think it's time you came with me.

And I remember why we ran away.
'Cause then I remember why we ran away.
'Cause then I remember why we had to run...

And you are, my only True Star
shine with all your might,
guide me through this lonely night.
And I want, whatever you want
and after all we've said and we've done
baby I think it's time you came with me.
