Spitalfield, The Yearbook Song

should i sign your yearbook now bringing closure to this all from this pen shakes my hand and i raed what you said as it spins around my head and i hope you understand

the time is right upon us now until next time is not this fall and i hope things dont change and i read what you said as it spins around my head and i hope you understand

i cant stand this half-baked ending i know that you're undertaken my heart breaks while your hearts' mending went until my head spins went until my head spins went until my head spins off again wish that i was seven years again went until my heads spin off again wish i was seven years again went until my head spins (5x) went until my head spins off again wish i was seven years again
