

Spoon, Chicago At Night

Now when she went to chicao that night she faced a wall and she woke up outside with all those leaves in her mouth and felt the pall and all night the rain came on down but then shed never been to chicao at night before the fall and it dont stop not at all it falls all around
in the city
hits the ground and now everybodys at disadvantage speaking with their second language shed never been there before they went and set up the wall and though nobodyd expected much from this reinvention she still broke right down after all because she knew that it was all over and wed hit a wall and like the fall this was all now its all around

on the ground

and i never been to the wall never been to the wall
