

Spring Heeled Jack USA, Mass Appeal Madness

We've been gone for so long that it doesn't really matter where we're going to, there's no looking back.
I know I should be strong, but my heart isn't in it and I don't know my limit, so all I can do is move on.

Different day, different town, they say take it easy.
You know I won't let you down, I hope you believe me.
I think I've been here once before, but I just can't remember.
I hope a miracle will occur so they don't know.

We've been gone for so long that it doesn't really matter where we're going to, there's no looking back.
I know I should be strong, but my heart isn't in it and I don't know my limit, so all I can do is move on.

I think we've been gone a long time, but I can't be sure.
If loneliness is a disease, well then I've found a cure.
Every place looks like home, every face looks familiar.
So close but yet so far.
The days blend together.
